About American Health Choice, Inc.

American HealthChoice, Inc. ("AMHI") is a medical services company comprised of a parent company and numerous owned and affiliated medical clinics in the state of Texas. AMHI's unique patient referral process is comprised of relationships with both attorneys and other professionals in the key metropolitan areas of Texas, and with a network of very useful marketing sources. It is this proprietary referral process that has been the key to AMHI's significant turnaround and increasing financial success since the turn of the century. In fact, as a result of its patient referral program, revenue at AMHI's company-owned clinics has increased steadily since 2000.

AMHI targets medical clinics for its Affiliated-Revenue program that are located in and around the large cities of Texas. The Company's growth strategy for this program involves recruiting as many as three or four additional clinics per quarter. AMHI is also continuing to increase revenues at its company-owned clinics by bringing in more patients via its increasingly productive patient referral process. AMHI's outlook for continued growth is very strong. www.americanhealthchoice.com
